epigenetics

CHOREOGRAPHED BY ISVEL BELLO
Movements, emotions, and thoughts are epigenetic factors that influence DNA's behavior, and dancers constantly process these physical and mental experiences individually and collectively. This work takes these ideas into an artistic and experimental process, exploring the intersection between dancers, humans, dance, biology, and science. This work was inspired by transgender biologist Karissa Sanbonmatsu's visionary TedTalk, in which she explains how life experiences can alter a person's DNA.

n the light

CHOREOGRAPHED BY MALEEK WASHINGTON
"Working with the trainees, I saw them dive into places that I know were uncomfortable, but at the same time they went in with full hearts and open minds...with the openness I was able to find avenues of what the story could be inside of the piece and...it made it a lot easier for us to just craft things...and that's how you all connect to one another...everyone is invested in how you're finding that and then someone [says] when I do this, this feels like this resembles fire and air coming together to make smoke. So all of the avenues for myself and the dancers started to become really open but at the same time really narrow in sight, like we're all on the same mission."
